

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to apparatus for using a lamp for treatment of a patient's skin, which lamp is more efficient than prior such devices and to methods of using lamps for various skin treatments. The apparatus improves efficiency by minimizing photon
5 leakage and by other enhancements. The invention also includes various enhancements to waveguides used for optical treatment on a patient's skin.

Patent Attorney